

State COVID-Operation Snapshot for New Mexico

On June 1, a public health order was issued to extend all previously issued orders to remain in effect until June 30. All essential businesses that are permitted to operate must adhere to required COVID-safe practices for all employers, as well as guidance specific to their industry sector. Employers are required to ensure employees have face coverings available which must always be worn in the presence of others.

On May 15, Governor Lujan Grisham signed a modified, extended public health order easing some restrictions and requiring face masks in public. The extended order still advises that New Mexicans should remain in their homes except to engage in essential activities.

The updated order permits non-essential businesses to resume operations at 25% of their pre-crisis levels and encourages individuals to continue to work from home as much as possible. The 14-day quarantine order remains in place for out-of-state airport arrivals.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

- June 1 Public Health Order – Click Here to Read
- COVID-Safe Practices for All Employers – Click Here to Read
- COVID-Safe Practices for Manufacturing, Warehouse, and Food Production – Click Here to Read
- Stay-At-Home Order FAQ – Click Here to Visit
- Public Health Orders and Executive Orders – Click Here to Visit
- State of New Mexico COVID Resources – Click Here to Visit
- State of New Mexico COVID Health-Related Information – Click Here to Visit
- New Mexico Business Coalition COVID Resource Portal – Click Here to Visit

Last updated June 1 at 10:05 p.m.